(from World Bank Monthly Operational Summary website - Feb08)
Sapthip Biogas: The objective is to have Wastewater Management and Methane Capturing for Heating to treat wastewater from the ethanol producing factory (200,000 liters/day) at the Sapthip facility in Lopburi, Thailand. The Upflow Anaerobic Sludge Bed (UASB) reactor will remove the organic material in the wastewater, thus reducing the Chemical Oxygen Demand (COD) and subsequent fugitive CH₄ emissions. Biogas produced will be used in the Sapthip facility to create heat displacing about 120 tons of coal. Concept review scheduled for early-May 2008. Environmental Assessment Category B. US$ 40.0 (IBRD). Consultants will be required.

The beer industry is the main business that helps make the Thai Beverage Plc. empire into a progressive and strong conglomerate.

Beer Chang is produced from three breweries with international standard. One in Kamphaeng Phet belongs to the Beer Thai (1991) Public Company Limited, another in Bang Baan district, Ayutthaya belongs to Beer Thip Brewery (1991) Company Limited, and the other in Wang Noi, Ayutthaya belongs to the Cosmos Brewery (Thailand) Ltd.

As a major producer of ethanol, Thai Alcohol Public Company Limited contributes to Thailand's effort to conserve energy. Ethanol, made from agricultural products such as cassava and molasses, is used to produce gasohol which the Thai government has promoted as an alternative fuel to lessen the country's dependence on imports of crude oil and refined petroleum products.

Apart from liquor and beer products, companies within the Group of the Thai Beverage Plc. also have several other related products. They are established with the aim to produce and market products realized from waste materials in order to add value, help reduce waste matters, but at the same time are also the initiators of technical researches that directly benefit the general public. These products are light construction bricks, fertilizers (from liquor production wastes); animal feed and supplementary animal feed (from malt waste); etc.

(from website)
 Rung Ruang Palm Oil Company Limited and Pathiu Plantation Company Limited, each holds a proportion of 50% share in the Chumporn Palm Oil Industry PCL (CPI)
 In 1993, the company expanded and built a distiller factory for palm oil production. This made the company the first Thai company for producing a full cycled palm oil industry from palm farming, a distiller factory for crude palm, a distiller factory for pure palm oil including a continuous production of other standard palm oil products to the industry's market including the general public's consumption market in bottles, tins and soft packs.

Short description of the products and/or services:

(from GP Case #10) The project activity is the introduction of anaerobic wastewater treatment with biogas collection and utilisation in Thai palm oil industry. Up to now, traditional anaerobic open pond systems are commonly applied in Thai palm oil industry. The tank-reactor technology commonly applied in industrialised countries has been adapted for Thai conditions - the result is the A-CSTR ("Appropriate -Complete Stirred Tank Reactor") - in co-operation with the University of Wageningen, Netherlands.
 Biogas generated from project activity approximately 20,700 m³ of biogas per day will be used for replacement of fuel oil and oil palm shell which is currently used to generate steam in Refinery plant.

Short description of the organisation:

(from GP Case #9)

The project involves the construction and operation of a new rice husk power plant in Pichit province, central Thailand, with 22 MW gross generating capacity, 20 MW net. Electricity will be sold through a 25-year power purchase agreement (PPA) with the Electricity Generating Authority of Thailand (EGAT).

The Project is designed to use rice husk for electricity generation that would otherwise be burned in the open air or left to decay in field.

Short description of the products and/or services:

(from GP Case #9)

This project is a thermal-steam cycle power plant, which uses rice husk as heat energy source. The power plant is expected to have thermal-electrical conversion efficiency approximately 30%. The plant will operate using suspension-fired boilers, designed to burn ground rice husk in suspension. This particular boiler technology was adopted due to their ability to produce high quality ash product, which will be suitable as a substitute ingredient for cement.

(from website)

Surin Tip Rice Mill Co., Ltd. is located in the heart of Surin Province , and has been in the rice milling business for over 40 years. The company works closely with the farmers as a cooperative community, thereby allowing us to regulate the production of Thai Hom Mali Rice from the planting of the seeds and transplanting procedures, through to harvesting and post-harvesting techniques. We also employ the most modern and hygienic rice milling machinery to guarantee quality throughout the entire rice lifecycle, ultimately controlled by established scientific principles and laboratory testing.
