

Ms. Usha Rao

Ms Usha Rao, based in New Delhi, is currently Project Manager, KfW Carbon Fund. Prior to joining KfW Carbon Fund, she was working with a Carbon Company as Vice President, CantorCO2e India. She has a formal education in the areas of Physics and Management and rich as well as diverse experience in the area of climate change. To her credit, she conceptualised and implemented a small scale CDM capacity building for state level agencies in India in association with DNA; launched the Thematic Trust Fund supported project on CDM and Bio-methanation in 2001; and was recently nominated as a resource person to the Regional centre, UNDP, Bangkok for a CDM component of a regional energy project. She has also published articles in international journals/newsletters and co-authored a book on renewable energy policy analysis for India. Over the last several years, she has also independently and successfully managed climate change portfolio of UNDP and Global Environment Facility (GEF) in India.